

I am against the Consumer Bankers Association (CBA) proposal to allow banks, credit card companies, etc. with an established business relationship with me to solicit me even though I have signed a no call list. The whole purpose of my signing such a list was to keep my household from being interrupted by unwanted calls. I do not want that right to be taken away from me by the CBA!.

Thank you,

David R. Pierce